

COLLEGE INTERNSHIPS: ALACHUA AUDUBON SOCIETY

Spring 2023 in Gainesville

Do you want to help dedicated conservationists DO SOMETHING for nature?
Seeking real-world experiences with nature enthusiasts of all ages?

Alachua Audubon Society (<http://www.alachuaudubon.org/>)

SEEKS individuals interested in conservation, education, NGO administration, fundraising and other conservation activities. Interns must be currently matriculated college students in good academic standing and be able to contribute a min. of 5 hours per week for 12+ weeks during the academic term. Intern opportunities we anticipate in Spring 2022 include: bird banding, nest box monitoring (kestrels & warblers), Common Loon migration monitoring, and assisting with the Backyard Birding Tour. Additional assistance may be needed with educational and public outreach, and strategic social media. Interns may accrue academic credit if arranged by their institution.

AAS is a volunteer organization (501.c.3 non-profit) driven by commitments to conservation, collaboration, outreach education and promoting nature's welfare. We invite you to join us!

QUALIFICATIONS:

- Undergraduate student, actively registered during the 2022/2023 academic year
- Interested in conservation, knowledgeable or enthusiastic about birds
- Must have 5 hours per week (including weekends) for activities with AAS staff

APPLICATION: Electronic submission (PDF in email) should include:

- letter of intent,
- latest resume with contact information,
- list of 3 references who agree to be contacted (w/phone numbers)
  - at least one needs to be a college professor
- all in one single PDF file.

EMAIL APPLICATIONS TO: CHUCAO AT UFL DOT EDU

- by Jan 1, 2023, 5 PM.
- Put AAS INTERN in the subject line.

If you have already served as an intern and you want to serve again – you must re-apply!